Journal Website

Human Kinetics, the premier information provider to the physical activity field, is proud to announce a partnership with Atypon through their Literatum publishing platform, a comprehensive e-publishing platform used by many highly regarded professional and scholarly publishers. Literatum has been continuously developed for more than 20 years, constantly evolving to meet the demands of the scholarly community. Through the Literatum platform, our new Human Kinetics Journals website offers superior technological capabilities and better positions us to actively serve the needs of our authors, editors, library customers, and the scholarly community as a whole. Our partnership with Literatum provides a significant upgrade to our website's infrastructure and functionality, including advanced search capabilities, DOIs for all articles, extensive usage analytics, social-media tools, superior readability and accessibility, and mobile-optimized sites (no need for a separate app). We encourage you to explore our new site at <http://journals.humankinetics.com/>.

Webinar Series

The Human Kinetics webinar series offers a number of upcoming and recorded webinars that focus on such topics as leadership, resiliency, and team cohesion. Visit <http://www.humankinetics.com/webinars> to sign up or view past webinar media.

Listserve Information

SPORTPSY is an electronic-mail bulletin board on exercise and sport psychology with more than 1,000 members. SPORTPSY can now be found at LISTSERV.TEMPLE.EDU. To join SPORTPSY, send the following command at the command line:

TELL [LISTSERV AT \[LISTSERV.TEMPLE.EDU\]\(mailto:LISTSERV.TEMPLE.EDU\)](mailto:LISTSERV.TEMPLE.EDU) SUBSCRIBE SPORTPSY [your name] or send a message to listserv@listserv.temple.edu with nothing in the subject heading and only the following in the text: SUB SPORTPSY [your name]. If neither approach works check with your campus e-mail expert or send Michael Sachs a message at MSachs@nimbus.temple.edu.

A Listserv (AAASP-Expsych) dedicated specifically to exercise- and health-related topics also exists. It is open to all members of the Association for the Advancement of Applied Sport Psychology and is intended for discussions related to exercise- and health-related research and practice. For more information and to subscribe, go to <https://list.mail.virginia.edu/mailman/listinfo/aaasp-expsych>.
