Journal Aim and Scope

The Sport Management Education Journal (SMEJ) promotes advancement of the body of knowledge in pedagogy as it relates to sport management education and disseminates knowledge about sport management courses, curricula, teaching, and faculty affairs. This established semiannual journal, publishing in April and October, addresses a range of issues concerning graduate and undergraduate education in sport management. Topics of interest include curriculum development, accreditation, employment competencies, effective teaching methods, experiential learning, online learning, and issues and trends in sport management education. Manuscripts based on conceptual, philosophical, and empirical inquiry will be considered for publication.

SMEJ also features two special sections. In an effort to encourage growth in the exchange of pedagogical practices in sport management, the Pedagogical Innovations section solicits contributions that aid SMEJ readers in both a scholarly and an expressly practical manner. These submissions address the everyday needs of sport management educators and industry professionals in search of ideas that can be put to use immediately. Submission categories include case studies and instructional techniques.

The Perspectives section provides a space for exchanging ideas that may not be immediately applicable to teaching but are nonetheless critical for advancing the state of sport management education. This section includes essays, commentaries, and interviews.
